

A MYSTERIOUS WORLD

As the multiple moons exchanged places with the golden sun in the azure sky, a mysterious misty haze began to form under the swaying, rugged trees. What was this place? Why was it so eye catching? Behind the trees, curling around thick ebony branches were emerald vines, which loudly creaked. Dangling down from the layer of moss, vast, silver leaves flickered like church candle flames in breeze. Through the air, sweet scented pollen drifted through the archways which were created by the curving brown branches which created halos of light above and below.

However, the most delightful sight was the strange, exotic, colourful plants which glowed bright neon colours. Sapphire, ruby and emerald lights shown through the sometimes dull surroundings - filling it with a song of life and colour. In addition, white wisps of cloud danced and twisted in between the trees. This magical place was truly special. It was hypnotizing - a world full of wonder and enchantment.